

Environment and Sustainability Policy

Purpose

This policy is designed to guide our business by integrating environmental, social, and governance (ESG) considerations into our decisions, investments, and daily operations.

As an important part of the state's infrastructure, Launceston Airport plays a key role in supporting tourism, freight, trade, and connecting people and businesses to the global marketplace. We are dedicated to minimising our environmental impact and continuing to operate in a sustainable way.

Our goal and commitments

Our goal is to embed achievable and impactful environmental sustainability practices throughout our operations. By working closely with airlines, tenants, contractors, and other stakeholders, Australia Pacific Airports (Launceston) (APAL) aims to:

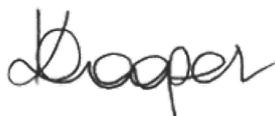

- Take steps to conserve natural resources and adapt to climate change.
- Reduce our environmental impact by minimising energy consumption and the carbon emissions we directly control or influence. We will also actively seek opportunities to remediate legacy pollution and limit its ongoing effects.
- Actively manage the environment impacted by our operations at Launceston Airport.
- Cut down waste sent to landfills, while supporting circular economy principles to reuse resources wherever possible.
- Manage land responsibly to protect cultural heritage and environmental values while ensuring aviation safety. This will be achieved through collaboration and consultation with the wider community, First Nations councils and regulators.

- Maximise the use of our current facilities. Design, build, and operate new infrastructure with environment and sustainability in mind.
- Follow all relevant heritage, environmental, and energy laws, policies, and compliance obligations.
- Continuously improve our environmental performance through our Environmental Management Plan.

Accountabilities and responsibilities

This policy applies to all activities related to the management and operation of Launceston Airport, including those of our employees, tenants, retailers, airline and ground transport partners, and contractors.

We ask that everyone involved follows this policy and keeps it in mind when making decisions.
